Conference on

Systemic Risk and Financial Stability

by the Department of Quantitative Finance and the Freiburg Institute for Advanced Studies

Freiburg, September 19th & 20th, 2019

The conference will bring together researchers working in the areas of finance, economics and statistics to discuss new research on sources of instabilities in financial systems. This includes among others the modelling of systemic risks in financial networks, the analysis of interbank loan markets as well as the investigation of risks inherent in shadow banking. In addition, the conference aims at advancing research that focusses on the link between financial markets and the real economy. Further, it will provide a forum to discuss methods that improve the resilience of the financial system to adverse shocks and that aid to prevent potential spillover effects to the real economy.

Conference Themes

The conference will cover both theoretical and empirical research on topics like (including, but not limited to)

- Systemic risk in financial networks
- Risks in interbank markets
- Shadow banking and Fintech
- Interaction between financial system and the real economy
- Risk management
- Macroprudential regulation of systemic risk
- Policy implications
